PROJECTS

- Pneumonia detection using deep learning

Description:

Pneumonia is an inflammatory condition of the lung effecting primarily the small air sacs known as alveoli. Typically symptoms include some combination of productive or dry cough, chest pain, fever and difficulty in breathing. In this project we identified & localize pneumonia in chest X-RAY images by taking images from the prepared dataset.

- Violence Detection in video Surveillance

Description:

Developed an innovative violence detection system using advanced computer vision and deep learning techniques to enhance public safety. Improved accuracy over traditional methods by analyzing both appearance and movement in video footage. Implemented real-time deployment, demonstrating practical applicability in security systems. Future work includes refining models, augmenting datasets, and optimizing performance across diverse conditions.
